

VALUE ADDED COURSE IN BIOETHICS & ENVIRONMENTAL ETHICS (BEEE)

I'M IN NEED OF CHANGE.

OK, LET'S WALK THIS PATH TOGETHER

BIOETHICS:

Day in and day out, healthcare professions' students learn the hard skills of the science and art of their discipline, from theory to clinical practice to carrying out procedures. But in the rush to extensively and comprehensively cover these core topics and gather the essential skills necessary for clinical practice, students are not exposed to the one unifying thread that binds all skills and knowledge - that essential lifeline thread is ethics. The Centre for Ethics at Yenepoya University has long realized this and provides an opportunity for students of all healthcare professions to learn about bioethics and medical ethics. This course enhances their application of the clinical skills.

ENVIRONMENTAL ETHICS:

- Healthcare practitioners have a greater responsibility towards protecting the environment. As responsible global citizens, students will be made aware of the environmental ethical issues.
- The students will be encouraged to take up small projects that enhance the pristine beauty of our green campus.
- Basic principles of Bioethics will also be discussed to form the basis of environmental ethics.

DAY AND TIME:

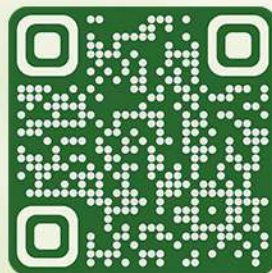

2nd Friday afternoon from 4PM - 6 PM, 7 contact programs (14 hours interaction) and one session on evaluation. 14 hours activity session

COMMENCEMENT OF THE COURSE: 16th February 2024
